Dr. Marvyn Jaffe:

"Coffee, tea, or me?" asks Tina Kennedy of Dr. Jaffe as she brings his mid-morning snack.

"Didn't you hear about Marv? It's all over the office!"

Congratulations to Dr. Jaffe in graduating his first class . . . a class of 967 students . . . the class of '74. In retrospect, Dr. Jaffe found an especially strong resurgence of the school spirit concept in the senior class. Their initiation of MS Marathon and the CSC program and the great numbers of students involved exemplified a return to concern for other human beings rather than the typical selfish attitude.

Dr. Jaffe was also impressed by the number of students who ". . . challenged the time-honored traditions" during his administration. He was gratified by the openness which has existed between the administration and the student body over the past three years. Among the many changes which have been effected during the Jaffe administration — the unifying House Plan, the emphasis on student's rights, the enlargement of the faculty, the new facilities, the empathy of the Guidance Department — the change in the atmosphere of the school itself: "an atmosphere created among the staff and students which is one of concern, openness, respect, and communication."

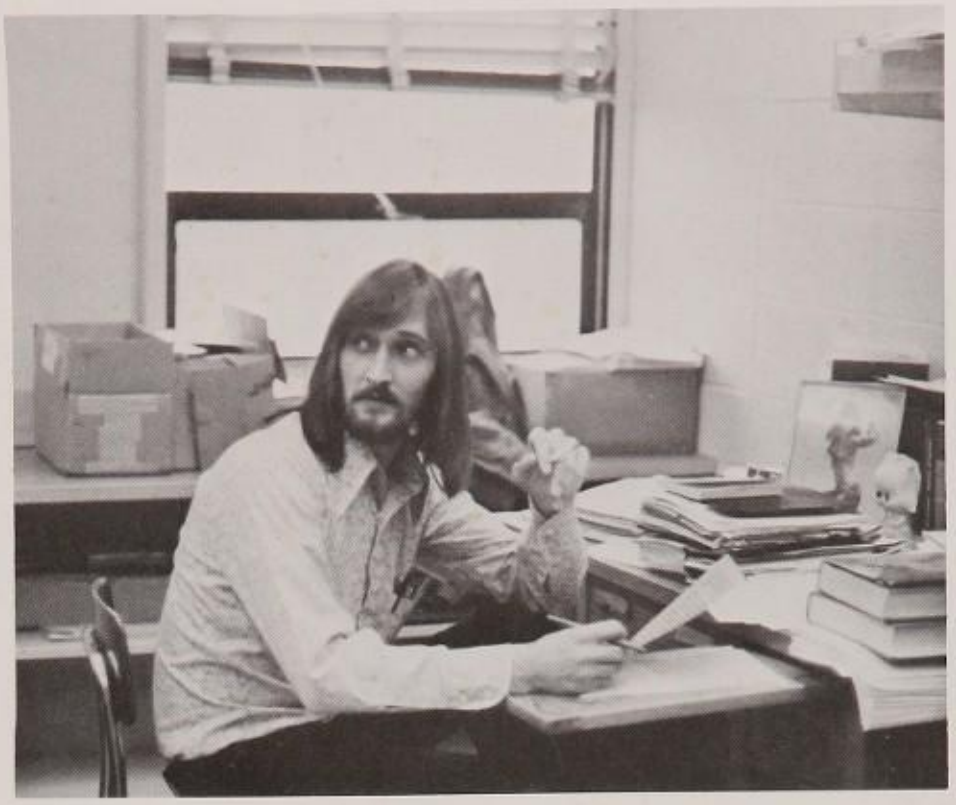
The Art Department underwent an entire curriculum change this year, after two years of trial testing various Open Studio Concepts and behavioral objectives. During the summer workshop the Open Studio Concept took its final form. This system is as improvement in that it offers and opportunity for the student to move from studio to studio and from teacher to teacher during the semester or the year depending upon the type of roster being followed.

The program offers drawing, painting, printracing, commercial art, weaving and textiles, sculpture, fashion design and illustration, jewelry design and metal, construction, and pottery. Certain courses require that each student be assigned to a teacher-advisor for a semester of the year. The course requirements are clearly stated, but the student selects the instructional objectives to fulfill the requirements. Advanced students develop their own programs with the help of their teacher-advisor.

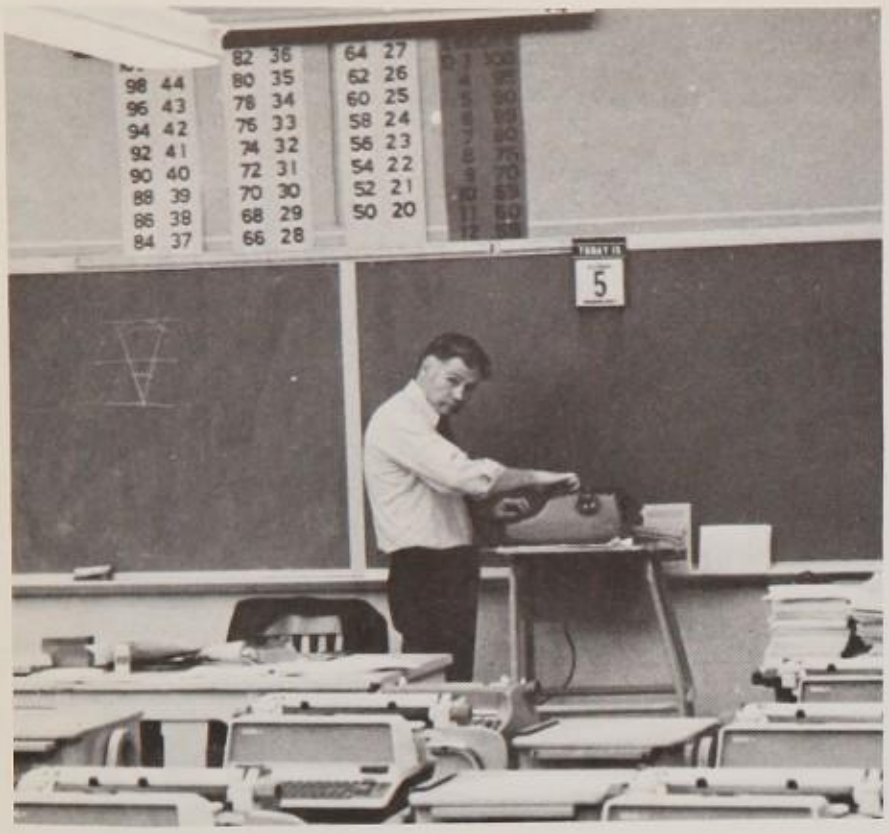
This year a new course was developed, which being both an English and a history course, unofficially formed a new department. The American Dream, taught by two Social Studies teachers — Mrs. McDonald and Mr. Feinberg and two English teachers — Mrs. Turner and Mr. Marcoon, was an examination of the character of the nonconformist American. The elements of the uniqueness of Americans emphasized in the course were: nonconformity, a strong humanitarian feeling, a puritan ethic which was important in America's formation, and the importance of successfulness in the American way of life. The course was centered around the examination of philosophies, religions, art and other aspects of culture. At least once every two weeks the students in this course met in the large group of one hundred students and had some sort of cultural experience including art shows, a ballet show, and various films. The other class periods were handled by breaking the one hundred students into regularly sized groups of twenty-five and seminar groups of twelve. Individuals in the seminar groups worked independently on projects from time to time.



Bruce Marcoon, one of the four American Dream Teachers, plans the rigorous itinerary for the trip to New York.

Several students gaze at the beautiful skyline from the deck of the ferry.

While waiting to board the Statten Island Ferry, a group of students take time to pose for the camera.



"Are you looking for something?" asks Mr. Swartz.

The Business Education Department was extremely busy this year with its evaluation of the courses for an independent organizational program. The greatest addition to the department this year was an IBM magnetic card selectric typewriter which was bought with the assistant of federal funds. It offers a marvelous opportunity for the Typing II-S and the Co-op students who are able to operate the typewriter.

Giving up precious practice time, Lorraine Dick types important messages for the Oak.

Ah, to see a student happy in her work, or is Irene Smith just glad to have her picture taken?

Immersed in her work, a volunteer frowns, oblivious of the photographer.

Without the assistance of the members of the typing club the publications would probably never come out, much less on time. Under the direction of president Theresa Carini, the girls spend their time typing articles for the Acorn and copy like this for the Oak. They also give their time to the different offices and secretaries.

Correcting a mistake, a typing club member works during a free period.

There early in the morning answering telephones in the attendance office, and all day working in the different class centers, the members assist the school personnel in many areas. The girls can be found in the Health Suite, recording the height and weight of a student, or in the library, checking books. The purpose of the club, assistance wherever possible, is displayed admirably by this year's members.

The main objective of the English Department this year was toward more individualized work with the students working at their own pace and with a greater variety of materials. The department expanded its curriculum in order to offer a greater choice for students by adding four new courses. Folklore, Fantasy and Fairytale, covered topics ranging from mythology to children's literature; American Dream combined English and U.S. History and was taught by four faculty members. It was designed to offer an alternative to the traditional English and History courses; another new addition, Advanced Film Making, enabled the interested students to continue their study in film making techniques; the last new course, Women in Literature, was an attempt to examine the woman's role in traditional literary works.

In addition to new courses seven new faculty members were added to the department: Patricia Carlis, Charles Fitzgerald, Marlene Messina, John Mingus, Virginia O'Malley, and Andrew Udis. Laurie Shulman replaced Susan Freeman in midyear.

Another day's work stares boldly up at Madame Bathish and she stares back resolute.

Exposing students to the language arts is the main goal of the Foreign Language Department. Headed by Ernesto Canales, this department has twelve members on its teaching staff. Language I and II are designed to develop basic skills while the third and fourth years are for those students who wish to achieve their full potential in these areas.

For a first time this year Language III and IV are being offered the option of an outstanding/pass/fail grading system instead of regular grades in order to give more students the opportunity of contriving a language study without the pressure of grades.

In each of the language classrooms the longest wall was painted a bright color in order to provide an interesting background for paintings pertaining to that language. The hope of the Language Department was to create a warm atmosphere conducive to learning and also to familiarize the students with foreign culture.

This spring the department traditionally held its Language Festival. The festival exposed not only language students but the entire student body to European cultures.

This year, with last minute organization, the Hi-Q Team was put under even more pressure than usual. Plus the fact that if they made it to the finals, they would set a record, proved too much for the novice team.

Fulfilling one duty of his position as secretary, Mark Garrison speaks at the installation.

Looking down on the world below, Bill deGrouchy smiles at fellow Honor Society members.

The installation ceremony of the National Honor Society, in which the members receive their pins, took place early in December. The purpose of the society is to honor those students whose academic standing is good and who participated in a number of activities. Out of the 212 students eligible because of their 3.0 average as of sophomore year, 96 finally became members. Over 100 were eliminated because of a lack of the necessary 20 points for school involved activities.

The four officers elected in November were, Steve Taylor, president; Ellen Baldino, vice-president; Mark Garrison, secretary; and Rosemarie Hutnick, treasurer. At the installation ceremony, they spoke on diverse topics, including leadership, service, scholarship and character.

At the suggestion of Mrs. Turner, the members have tentatively scheduled various activities, such as a trip to Stratford, Connecticut to the Shakespearean Theater and the raising of scholarship money for a member in financial need.

The Department of Industrial Arts is probably one of the most rapidly expanding in the school. The department is pleased with its success and popularity, and its objective is to involve as many students as possible. Unit learning was introduced so that students could choose advanced study in their favorite area for the last part of the year.

Three new faces were seen among the industrial arts faculty: Mr. Charles Lucey, in Visual Communications and metal shop; Mr. Sam Leos, in Visual Communications and applied math; and Mr. Richard Snow, who replaced Mr. Robinson during his half year sabbatical.

The number of girls involved in visual communications alone has increased from one to seventy over the past year. Mr. Gillespie, the department head, noted that although most girls start the year without as much experience as the boys, they catch up without much difficulty and frequently produce better work. He said, "We welcome the girls. They help us keep the boys in line."

"OK, who's the wise guy who took half our wood supply," quips Mr. Flood.

Amidst the hustle and bustle of normal classroom activity there can sometimes be heard a faint cry of . . . HELP!

As an alternative elective offered to seniors, the ITAP program was extremely successful this year. The initiator and advisor of the program, Patricia N. Turner, chose twenty-nine students out of the forty applicants who were best qualified to work with children and those who were seriously considering the teaching profession. ITAP is basically a program in which a student works closely with an elementary education teacher and the students for two periods of the day. During the course of the year, the student works with two teachers, one in the three lower grades, one in the three higher. Mrs. Turner requires this switching of grades in order for the student "to get a complete work experience as to what elementary education involves."

One day a week the students were required to attend a class instructed by Mrs. Turner. I'm OK You're OK, How Children Learn, and How Children Fail were used to make the students aware of themselves and the strategies which children use in order to attract attention in the classroom. In addition to classwork, the program also included special programs such as visiting the Montessouri School, which offers a more open type of classroom, and the Chester County Special School, which holds classes for the mentally retarded and the physically retarded.

Taking a few steps forward in reaching its goal of getting each student to become interested in math, the math department opened up several opportunities to the school this year. Trigonometry and Analytic Geometry, formerly combined, became semester courses, and courses in Practical and Computer Math were made available. Some students chose to follow a course of independent study, including two juniors who studied calculus on their own.

The newly opened resource center was used by those interested in spending their free time there, as well as students, proficient in certain math areas, tutoring other students. The department also acquired four new teachers: David Cullen, Elizabeth Lindsay, Carol Fienburg, and Joyce Zagursky. Miss Fienburg and Miss Zagursky are enrolled in program at the University of Pennsylvania in which they earn their Masters by teaching here. In addition, a student from Drexel University was available after school to help students in Fortram programming.

The hustle and bustle of practice disappears at concert time to make way for the polished performers.

Robert Doane

Finalizing courses in chorus, theory, foundation, and appreciation for next year's evaluation of courses occupied much of Mr. Doane's time this year. The band was equally as busy with their activities throughout the year.

The fall season opened with the entertaining half-time shows of the bandfront. Along with these shows the bandfront marched in a Christmas parade. With the end of football season the band changed from a marching band to a concert band and busily prepared for the winter concert. The remainder of the winter was filled with programs at the junior high schools and the marching band contest. Spring brought on new activities for the band, including the spring concert and the "Judication Festival." This festival, which is an annual occurrence, provided the band with the opportunity to obtain a critical evaluation of their performance by a panel of musical experts. Mr. Doane finds this festival "very beneficial to the students in a number of ways." Very appropriately the year came to an end with the band's performance at the graduation ceremonies.

Members of the choir prepare to descend to the auditorium floor.

David Hall

The entire curriculum of the choral department underwent a complete change this year. Mr. Hall describes these changes as "giving greater flexibility in programming and enabling participation in different levels of experience and ability." The variety of new courses include smaller choral groups, a sophomore girl's choir, junior and senior choral groups and the Madrigal Singers, which consist of 18 voices from the concert choir.

Oct. 4th, the concert choir performed at Drexelbrook Inn. In addition, they performed with the Mendellsohn Club. In November, the choir attended the "Messiah Sing In" at Temple University and in December sang Bach's Christmas Orations at the Academy of Music. The choral group participated in the "Fall Festival of Song". The annual Winter Concert included a variety of music that ended with the "Hallelujah Chorus". The Spring schedule includes the Spring Concert, a "Pops" concert and the traditional spring trip to Harrisburg.

The student body experienced a complete revision of the curriculum of the gym classes this year. These changes brought cheers from some and groans from others. Most of the groans came when it was announced that gym lockers were not to be given out this year causing students to have to "brown bag" their uniforms; girls showers would also be mandatory. But the news of the change from the standard program soon brought back the smiles. Seven new activities were initiated. They included recreational games, European handball, gymnasium hockey, slimnastics, rhythmics, judo and self-defense, and weight-lifting.

"Our new physical education program enables students to partake in a greater variety of lifetime sports," explains Mr. Albert Jackson, head of the Physical Education Department. "The key word, which is the basis for this new plan, is motivation," he also adds. Mr. Jackson believes that by giving the students a broader range of activities to choose from, each individual will want to further develop his potential in one or more areas.

The American Studies Program taught by four teachers combined the 11th Junior English program with U.S. History in an effort to give the students a better view of the American culture. Field trips to various community law enforcement centers formed a basis for the Criminal Justice Program. Other new courses included semester courses in Economics, Art of Revolution, Introduction to Anthropology, and Psychology. Miss Moser left midyear to join the Peace Corps in Thailand. The Career Development Program, headed by Donald L'Tainen, has found that its two-year career development program has proved dramatically successful during its past eight years of operation. The program provides students with the opportunity to work part-time in the community while simultaneously attending school. With its wide diversity of job opportunities, the program is able to fulfill each individual's needs.

The School Board had a most unusual start this year. For one thing, there were an unprecedented four new board members. In addition, with the completion of Upper Darby High School, the School Board began to concentrate its efforts on the new building facility planned for the Highland Park Elementary School.

Dr. Curwen Schlosser once again held the office of Superintendent of the Upper Darby School District. In addition he served as president of the School Board with responsibility for carrying out the policies of the board as well as providing the essential information for the formation of effective school-year policies. Dr. Schlosser was delighted with the high percentage of student involvement at the high school this year. He attributed this rise in involvement to the changing times, and to the enlightened administrators, who know how to change policies accordingly.

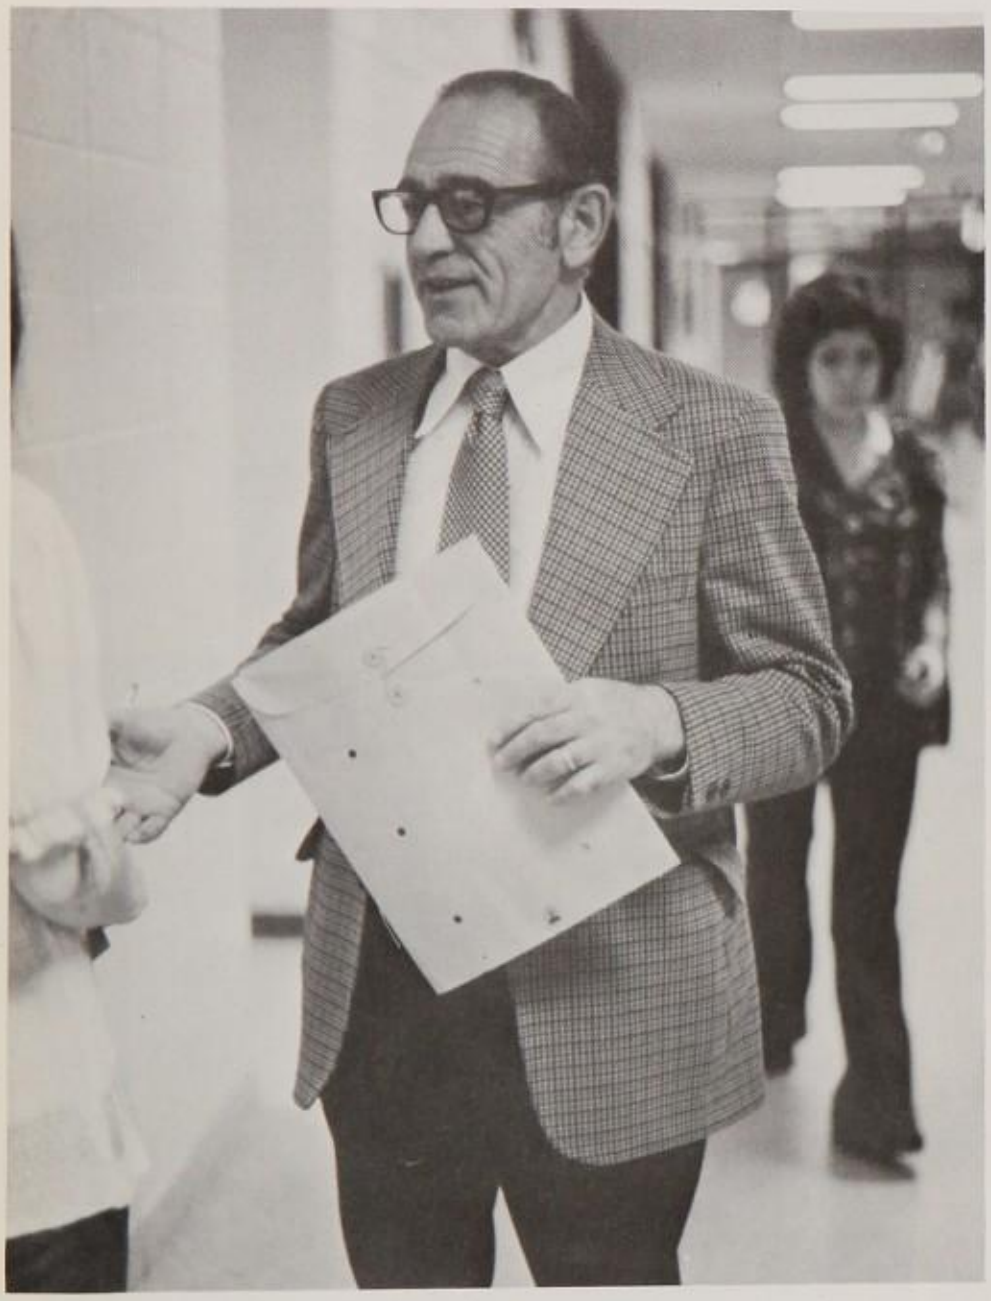
Peter Bernardino:



"Take two aspirin and call me in the morning." Mr. Bernardino is always available for advice.

Peter Bernardino: autumn, winter, spring . . . and summer. Administrator. Planner. Overseer of Faculty. Coordinator. His job as assistant principal requires him to put in many hours, not only during the winter, but also in the hot summer months. During the summer Mr. Bernardino's primary responsibility is the rostering of all students and teachers. As the head of rostering and scheduling, Mr. Bernardino must work closely with Mr. Tyre on course curriculum.

Mr. Bernardino is also in charge of the supervision of all teachers and therefore visits each classroom several times each year to insure a "dignified standard of teaching." He serves as the Chairman of the Scholarship Committee and also coordinates the school and the computer in the areas of grading and of course coding.

This year, in addition to his already rigorous schedule, Mr. Bernardino doubled as the Director of the Guidance Department. He was Chairman of the Planning and Placement Committee and was generally responsible for any task designated to him by Mr. Jaffe.

"Yes, you were saying Pete . . . Pete?" Mr. Bernardino loses concentration as the camera clicks.

Eugene Melcher: activities?

Try Sure under your left arm. It will convince your right.

The newest addition to the administration this year was Eugene Melcher who took over the job of Fred Loeb. Mr. Melcher supplied services to the students in "non-instructional areas" which included organizing student activities, coordinating the use of school facilities, insuring the security and safety of the students and faculty, and supervising the Vocation Technical Program.

It's just another document begging for his autograph, but Mr. Bernardino studies it first.

Richard Tyre: curriculum

The word "curriculum" has been endowed with new life in the past three years. The momentous expansion and revision in curriculum is due to the energetic efforts of coordinator Richard Tyre. His main objective has been to involve the student in curriculum changes and allow the student to choose his courses from the wide variety of courses offered. The basic philosophy followed by Mr. Tyre is:

> "Courses which provide sufficient challenge to involve students in a new dimension of the learning process are worth consideration for inclusion in the curriculum."

Trying to develop the finest possible curriculum it is the duty of Mr. Tyre "to be available for any work with teachers on problems involving course work" and to work with the department chairmen on the overall programs of study.

"Let's hear an R...!"

Attending various sports events and pep rallies, the 1973-74 cheerleaders continued to spread spirit and enthusiasm to the student body. Captain Nadine Ross and co-captain Ellen Wartell, along with the assistance of Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald, the squad's new advisor, widened the squad's scope to include Cross Country meets in their tight schedule, which already included pep rallies, football, basketball, soccer games, and wrestling meets.

Nadine was the only third-year letter winner. Second-year letters went to Ellen Wartell, Judy Romano, Barb DiMario, Lynne Simons, Joanne Laurence, and Joyce Poggi; while Francesa Galanos, Leslie Ross, Gerri Smith, Karen Shelly, and Gina Poggi received first-year awards.

Almost a prayer, Ellen Wartell's cheers plead for the outcome of the game.

into a smooth and organized marching routine.

Keeping 70 musicians in tune and in formation is not an easy job for a musical director, but Mr. Doane did that and more. He turned out a band that is a pleasure to both hear and watch. Striving for as much eye appeal as possible, the marching band stressed pattern and motion. For the ear appeal, they added new rock songs, which quickened the tempo of the marching.

This was the first year the band has truly marched along with the drill team and the assistance of Mr. Fagley's Marching formations helped them to make quite a display at the halftime shows.

Even when sloshing through the mud to the tune of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" the marching band put on a great show. It was always an enjoyment for the crowds when the band came out onto the field.

With drum majorette Beth Young leading the line, the band also participated in community affairs such as a Christmas parade through Clifton Heights.

Twirling, majorette Sue Redman entertains the Memorial Field crowd.

Leading the marching band, the color guard starts out onto the field.

Following a long period of tedious tryouts and strenuous practices, the drill team and color guard appeared on the field polished and entertaining performers. The precision dances complemented the action on any court or field.

For the Thanksgiving Day game against Haverford, the drill team employed straw hats as props in a Ragtime dance. Though many types of music were played, most of the girls preferred the "oldies but goodies" such as "Tea for Two" and "Cherokee".

During the cold of early morning practices and through the occasional downpour of a football game, the drill team kept up both their spirits and the quality of their dancing for the benefit of the crowds.

The drill team, under the direction of Carolyn Langmayer, was a highlight of the 73-74 sports season.

Lane, Evangelou named

Closely pursued by a Lower Merion foe, Evans Evangelou moves in for a goal.

Seven starting underclassmen gave a boost to the Royal soccer team as evidenced by their record of five wins, four losses, and three ties. Evans Evangelou, who was the high scorer with five goals and five assists, was selected the Most Valuable Player. Co-captains Rod Lane and Evangelou were named to the All-Central and All-District teams and honorable mention on the All-Central team was awarded to Sean Lacey. For the second consecutive year, Rod Lane earned a position on the All-Philadelphia Team.

The JV team had a disappointing season with a final record of two wins, seven losses, and three ties.

Surrounded by Radnor players, Phil Canella darts down the field.

The season looked dark for the Royal gridmen as they lost their first six games to Central League opponents. However, their spirit never dampened and they came back to win the remaining games including a close 9-6 win over Haverford on Thanksgiving Day. Leading the squad along with Coach Potter were Co-captains Bill Padula and Jeff Leinberger. Pep Club keeps the flame alive

Captivated by the light, Jimmy Neilson stands at a distance from the buring pyre.

For yet another year, the Pep Club, under the leadership of president Lynn-Marie Barnes and adviser Ms. Feinberg attempted to build up the spirit of the student body in a variety of ways. Stands were set up in the three centers where members sold pins, hat, stickers and other school-oriented paraphernalia. At the football games, the purple and gold bunting was just one of the decorations placed there by the club. The jesters, entertaining on both field and court, were chosen from the members.

As a climax to the Thanksgiving game preparations, volunteers burned in effigy a Haverford football player atop the huge bonfire.

Under the guidance of Mr. Hilbert and the leadership of president Barry Jones and vice-president Souren Tourian, the team plans not only to compete with last year's impressive record, but to surpass it. The ten district games plus any additional championship matches they participate in, result in a full and long season. Usually thought of as a club, The Chess Team is truly a team, representing our school at not only area schools, but nationally, as was shown in the Chicago matches.

Intimate Theatre in UD

In a dramatic moment the actors clutch hands in an effort for understanding.

Portraying a jail-house cook, Lorraine Colantonio is alone in the spotlight.

"Hello out there." Phil Yates calls into the unknown.

This was the first year of the intimate theater, and its success was partially due to the choice of plays, and the actors in them.

"Hello Out There" by William Saroyan was the first and it depicted the plight of a young man falsely accused of rape in a small Texas town. This poignant drama starring Lorraine Colantonio and Phil Yates was ideally suited to the smaller audience and personal atmosphere.

A quiet moment in a powerful play, Elisa Goldman melodramizes the widow, Mrs. Popov.

In a display of anger, Jack McGovern gives strength to his character of Smirnov.

hello out there

the boor

Roaring, shouting, fighting, the actors of Chekov's powerful story captured the audience with their performances in "The Boor". The play was concerned with the relationship between Smirnov, a rent collector and one of his tenants, a widow, Mrs. Popov. Comic relief was provided in the form of an old faithful servant played by Phil Yates. The leads were Jack McGovern and Elisa Goldman.

The accusing finger of Jack McGovern points to Phil Yates, the servant Luka.

Although their mascot was a tortoise, the UD Royals were as swift hares under the management of Patti Brennan.

Trouble on the run . . . Coaches Wiest and Fisher express uncertainty as they watch the oncoming Harriers.

The performance of this year's Cross Country team was off set by the breaking of four school records by Captain Bill de Grouchy. The thirty-eight membered squad placed third in the Central League with a seven-one record. Larry Sage and Most Valuable Player Bill deGrouchy were named to the All-Central League team. Bill was also elected to the All-Delco team. Dave Hough, who greatly contributed to the team, was awarded this year's novice award.

The faculty advisors were Maureen Daley and Patt Moser.

S.C. kicked off the fall season with the WIFI Win a Concert campaign. Leading the campaign are officers Craig Church, Heather Guyer, Vice President Bob Dilg, and President Doug Lucas. During the fall his greatest accomplishments were helping to host the P.A.S.C. Conference, organizing improvement seminars, promoting opportunities for schools to unite and discuss problems.

From January to June Bob Dilg served as president with Sue Taylor as Vice President and officers Joanne Sagherian and Paul Regan. His main activities included Bob Shoo Bop Concert, a variety of movies and a spring festival.

Sophomore house

When we asked Dean Brodsky what was special about the sophomore class, he replied, "Stationary sale, candy sale and film festival." These three were among the activities sponsored by the sophomore executive committee. Profits resulting from the sale of "smelly stationery" were not as high as had been expected; however, the effort did promote class spirit and pave the way for a very successful candy sale. The film festival, held in January, featured a Three Stooges flick. John Romano presided over the executive committee meetings which were held each Wednesday morning. At Christmas time the sophomores really showed their class spirit by winning the door decorating contest between the houses and by initiating Operation Santa Claus: a toy drive for underprivileged children. Guidance Counselors Tina Kennedy, Jean Leety, and Geoff Kramer, were available to sophomores and will follow them through their senior year.

Junior house

The Junior Executive Committee, presided over by Bob Pappa, was active every Tuesday planning activities for the Junior Class. The Halloween door decorating contest was solely a junior activity. It helped pave the way for the all-school Christmas door decorating contest. Juniors participated in the Christmas Ball by decorating a class tree, and started planning for their prom in February. A candy sale in March helped provide funds for the prom. A concert, free to all members of the Junior Class, was held February 2nd. Two rock groups — Pendulum and Iron Cross — were featured. Aided by Dean Schwartz and guidance counselors Anne Travis, Ruth Cromie, and John Abrams, the Juniors had a very successful year.

Gorman named to All-Central

Although the team's final record read 9 wins and 12 losses, the 73-74 Royals, led by co-captains Jim Gorman (high scorer and MVP) and Tom Hazinsky, achieved measures of success. Outstanding accomplishments for the Royals included a second-place finish in the Wayne Rotary Christmas tournament losing to champion Radnor 43 to 41; an exciting upset victory over first half champion Lower Merion; second half victories over Penncrest and Haverford; and twice scoring 81 points in victories over Unionville and Conestoga.

The Royals' successes featured many excellent performances by various players, including seniors Bill de Grouchy, Jim Roulston, Ralph Newbury, Herman Pace, Steve Taylor, Jim Gorman, Tom Hazinsky, and juniors Pat deGrouchy, Jim Salerno, and Duryel Thomas.

This was also a successful season for the young Royals, whose 12-6 record was the finest in many years. Outstanding players for the JV's were leading scorer Gary Silverman, Mark Taylor, Jeff Burke, Fred Monkman, and Joe Huver.

Ignoring the defensive efforts of her opponent, Kim Cull moves in for a basket.

Led by Captain Stacey Ott and Coach Middleton, the varsity basketbelles dribbled to a record of four wins and five losses. Kathy Hennessey was chosen Most Valuable Player for her performance on the court which helped her to become high scorer. Royalettes earning first year varsity letters were Lisa Auve, Mini Huver, Kim Cull, Sue Rawlings, Gaile Smith, Debbie Leinhauser, and Stacy Ott. Second year letter winners were Jill Burns, Cathy Huver, Kathy Hennessey, and Shirlee Hurst.

In spite of their record of three wins and six losses, the JV Royalettes showed great spirit and potential. Coached by Miss JoAnn Nester, Basketbelles receiving letters were Arlene Bruno, Barb Capaldi, Patti Ferkler, Donna Gudmundsen, Captain Nancy Hart, Sue Leinhauser, Nancy Rodgers, and Betty Raiburn.

The gymnastics team returned again this year after an inactive season in '73, but their record suffered because of this lapse. Not all the schools in our league have a gymnastics team, but the interest generated by both team members and students would seem to warrant a permanent place for gymnastics here at U.D. Led by Captain and Most Valuable Player, Larry Smith, the team, which was composed mainly of seniors, participated in six league meets. Coaches Stevens and Papp feel that this year will prove to be a fine foundation for a better season next year and in the future.

A much-improved boys' swimming team acquired an overall record of five wins and four losses. One such win was a 94-78 victory over Haverford, who had defeated the Royals for thirteen consecutive years. New coach Mr. Totten was pleased with the performance of the team, claiming it to be the best in years.

The team captains were Mike Knowles and Kevin O'Neill, who was named Most Valuable Player. In spite of the magnificient performance of the team, Ernie Munns was the only Royal to set a new school record, which was in the 100-yard freestyle.

Wary of his opponent, Kevin O'Neill surges ahead in the 100-yard backstro event.

Coach Jean Smith commented that the spirit of the team was also a large factor. The team was captained by Heather Guyer, who completed four years of varsity swimming this year, along with Betsy Rufo, an outstanding swimmer who contributed much to the team. Angela Tursi was named Most Valuable Swimmer.

Pulling back, Jeff Leinberger keeps his opponent from going out of bounds.

Ending the season with a dual meet record of nine wins and two losses, the Royal matmen placed second in Central League and sectional competition as Jack Chidester, Eric Barr, and Jeff Leinberger took their sectional meets. The Royals also took second place in the Christmas Tournament with Jack Chidester, Eric Barr, and Andy D'Amico becoming Christman champions.

Captains were Steve Bell, Jeff Leinberger, and Steve Eissler, and Most Valuable Player Andy D'Amico. Eissler, D'Amico, and Chidester were the only Royals to remain undefeated in dual meets. Eric Barr emerged from the Regions in third place, which enabled him to compete in state competition.

The JV matmen ended the season with an impressive record of nine wins and two losses. Steve Kingsland was the only JV Royal to remain undefeated; however, sophomores Joe Townsend, Maurice Feldman, and Ken Petrone only lost one match. The team shows much promise for next year's varsity team.

Scenery built by Miss Alice deKok and the stage crew, and a song written by Mr. Connor and Mr. Brodsky enhanced the portrayal of the Pied Piper's magic. Due to the hard work of all the cast members who visited each elementary school district, the four performances were a major success drawing an audience of approximately 1,700. OAK PHOTOGRAPHERS '74

Danny never did get it back together.

Due to the absence of the Photography Club this year, the bulk of the pictures for the Oak were taken by head photographer Ken Block and also Steve Rubin, assisted by Larry Bakalian and Danny Forsythe. A new addition to the photography staff this year was the position of Photography Editor held by Miggie Ritchie. Larry Bakalian was also responsible for the hand lettered headlines. During the first half of the year, Mr. Jeff Robinson served as photography advisor.

Photographer Steve Rubin can't seem to get enough pictures of himself.

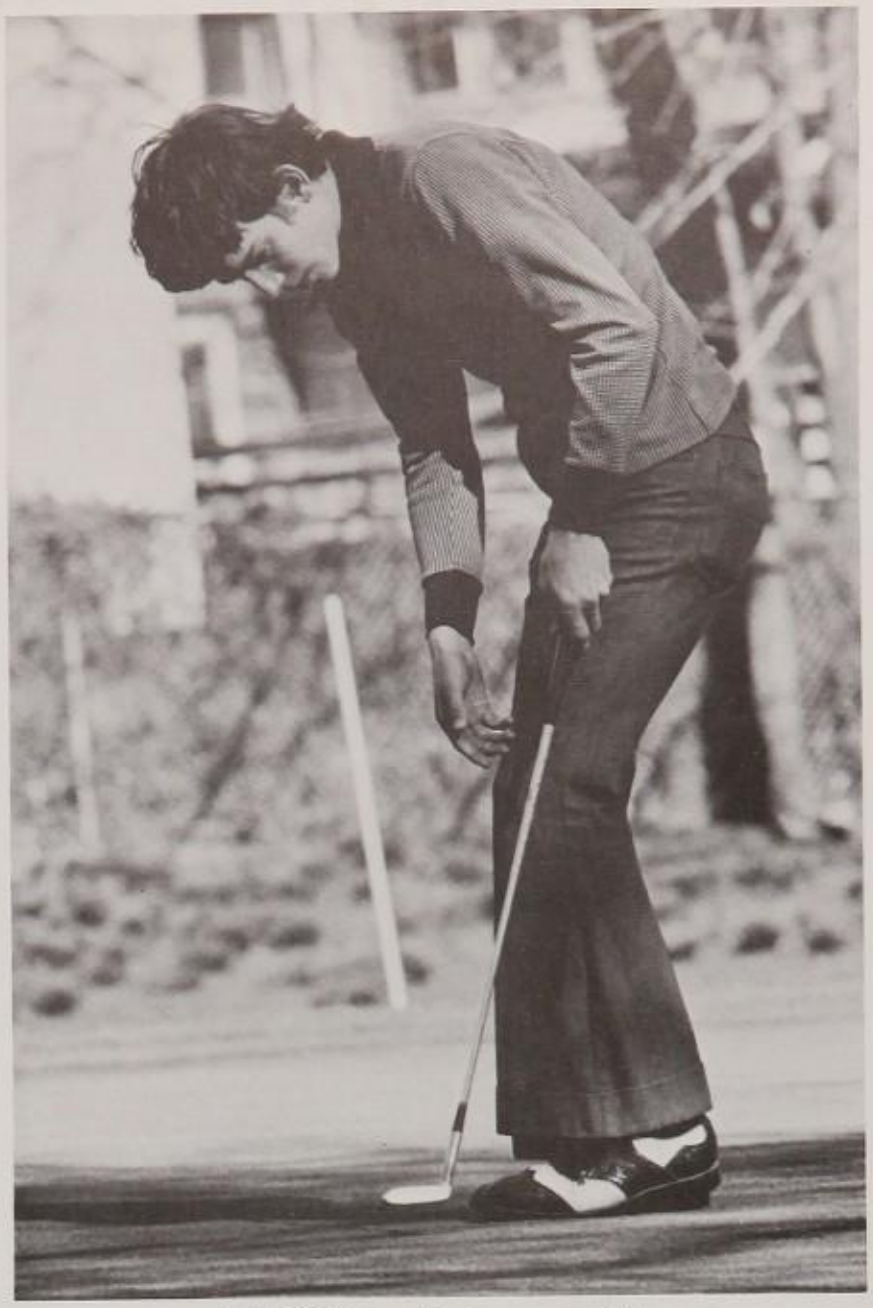
Opening their season with a 7½-7½ tie with Penncrest and a 12½-2½ victory over Ridley, the UD golfers have a bright future this season. Coach Jackson attributed the improvement to the newly acquired place to practice at Llanerch Country Club. The top five players were senior Steve Taylor, and sophomores Mark Taylor, Tom O'Malley, Robert Capoferri, and Gary Silverman.



A birdie? Steve Taylor successfully taps in a short putt.

Front Row: B. Burton, T. O'Malley, B. Capoferri, S. Taylor; Back Row: D. Merchant, G. Silverman, B. Berry, M. Taylor.

Putting it

"I think it'll fit." Debbie McCoy hands Donna Rementer a picture.

"Okay, what's next?" Dorothy Meibohm asks of Kathy Curci and Mr. Sisk on a N.Y. trip.

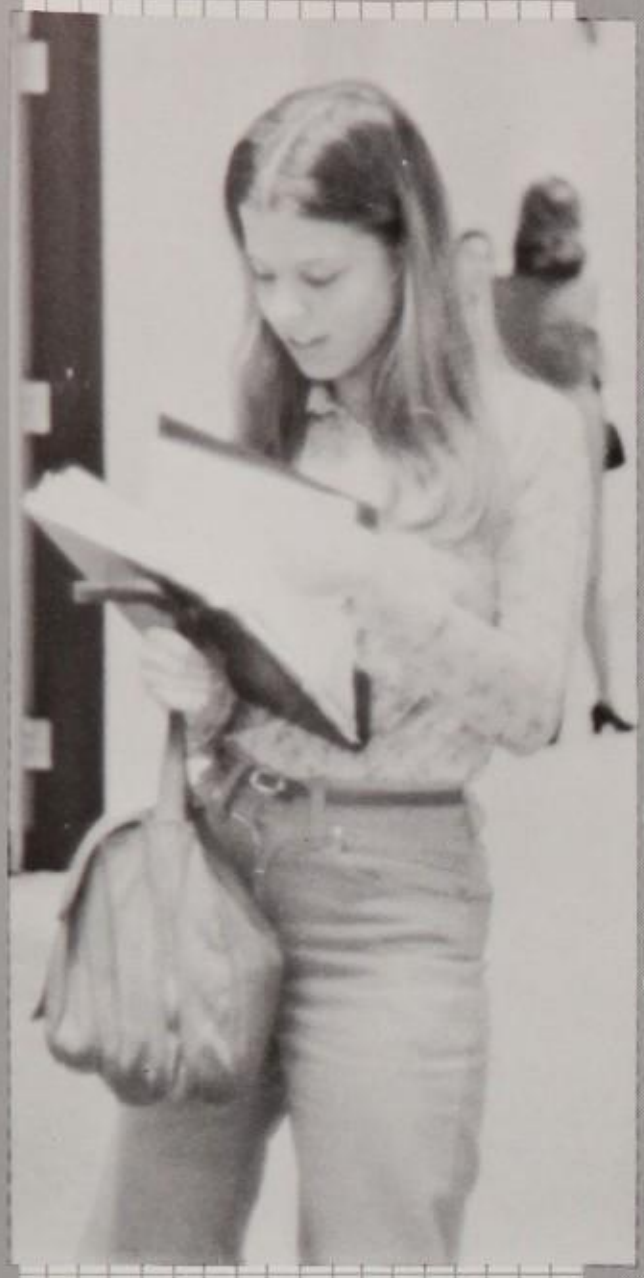
"The deadline's tomorrow?" Advisor Mr. Marcoon and Barb DiMario show dismay at the thought.

A national monument? No, just your friendly neighborhood Oak Staff.

Marilyn Santangelo tried to resist the urge of a naughty caption.

After seven months, three weeks, one day and eight hours, the final page of the 1974 Oak was turned into the publisher. Under the direction of Mr. Bruce Marcoon, the staff chose the theme "Fitting the Pieces Together." In addition to all this work, the staff still found time to make a trip to New York and to redecorate the office.

all together?



"I know I had it in here somewhere." Kathy Wilkerson searches for an elusive pass.

"Are you sure you have film?" Larry Bakalian asks Miggie Ritchie.

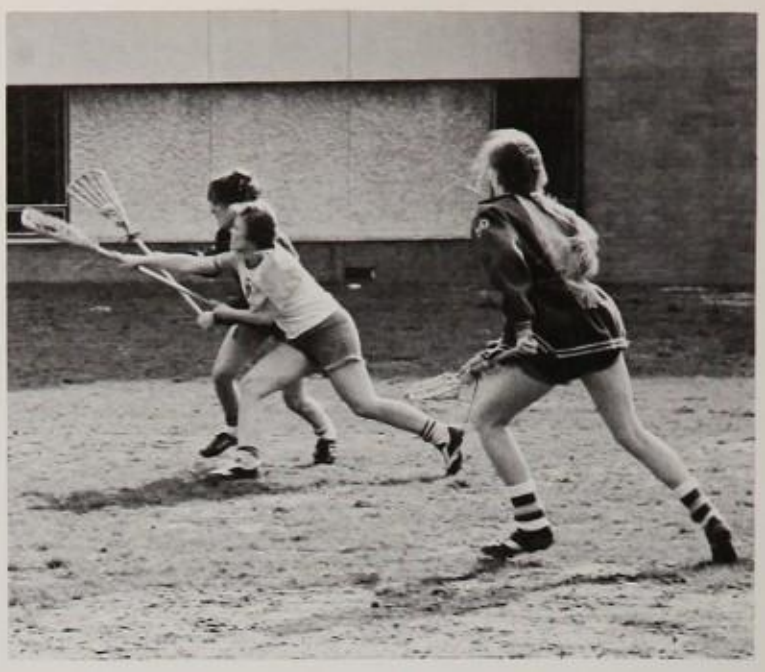
Usually drowning in index cards, Lisa Maeso takes a breather.

"I want that tomorrow." Rose Caproletti gives the photographers an order.

"Do you really expect me to use this?" Kim Dowden expresses exasperation.

Crossettes succumb

Closely pursued by her opponent, Kathy Huver struggles to keep possession of the ball.



Moving in, Ruthann Simpson checks her opponent.

Opening the season with a sound defeat by Ridley, the Crossettes have not lost enthusiasm and hope to better their record. With only three returning letter winners, the lacrosse team needs to work better as a complete unit. For the first time in years, the Royalettes can play on a home field instead of traveling to Penn Pines. Jeanne Hazel and Sue Shakarjian captained the team this year.

Losing the first game of the season to Ridley, the JV Crossettes worked to strengthen the squad and came back to tie Marple Newtown in the second game. Coached by Mrs. Briggs, the squad had high hopes that they would improve their position in the Central League.

Looking down the field, Joanne Sagherian searches for a teammate to pass the ball to.

One stop ahead of her opponent, Sue Shakarjian scoops up the ball.

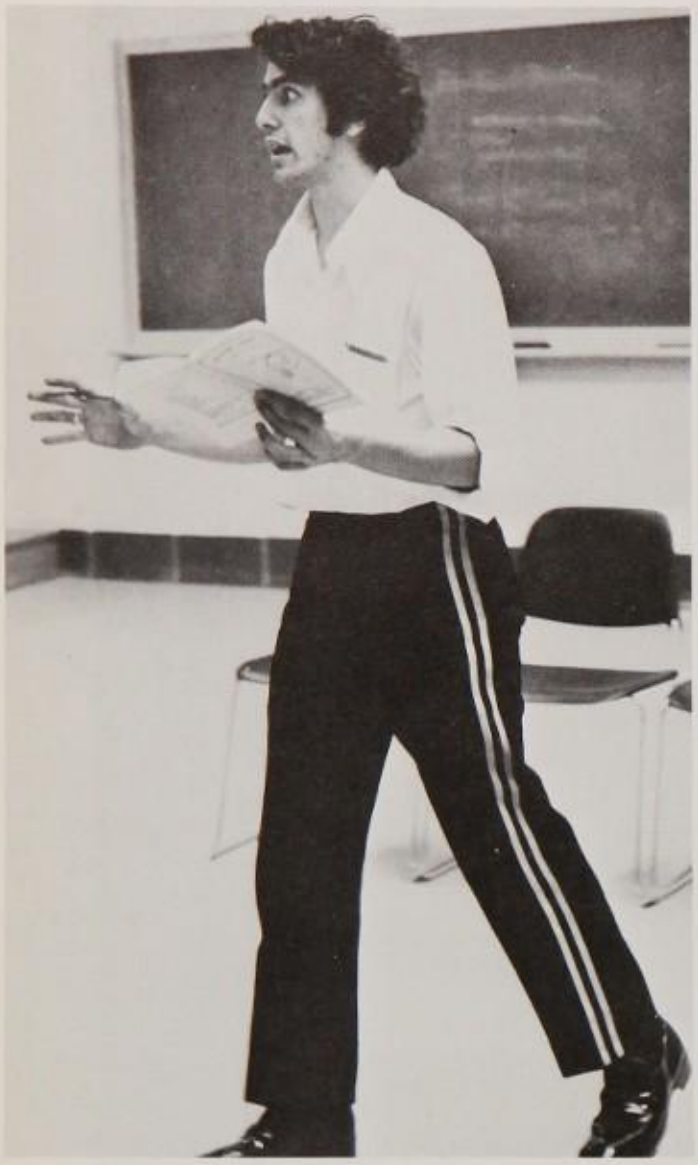
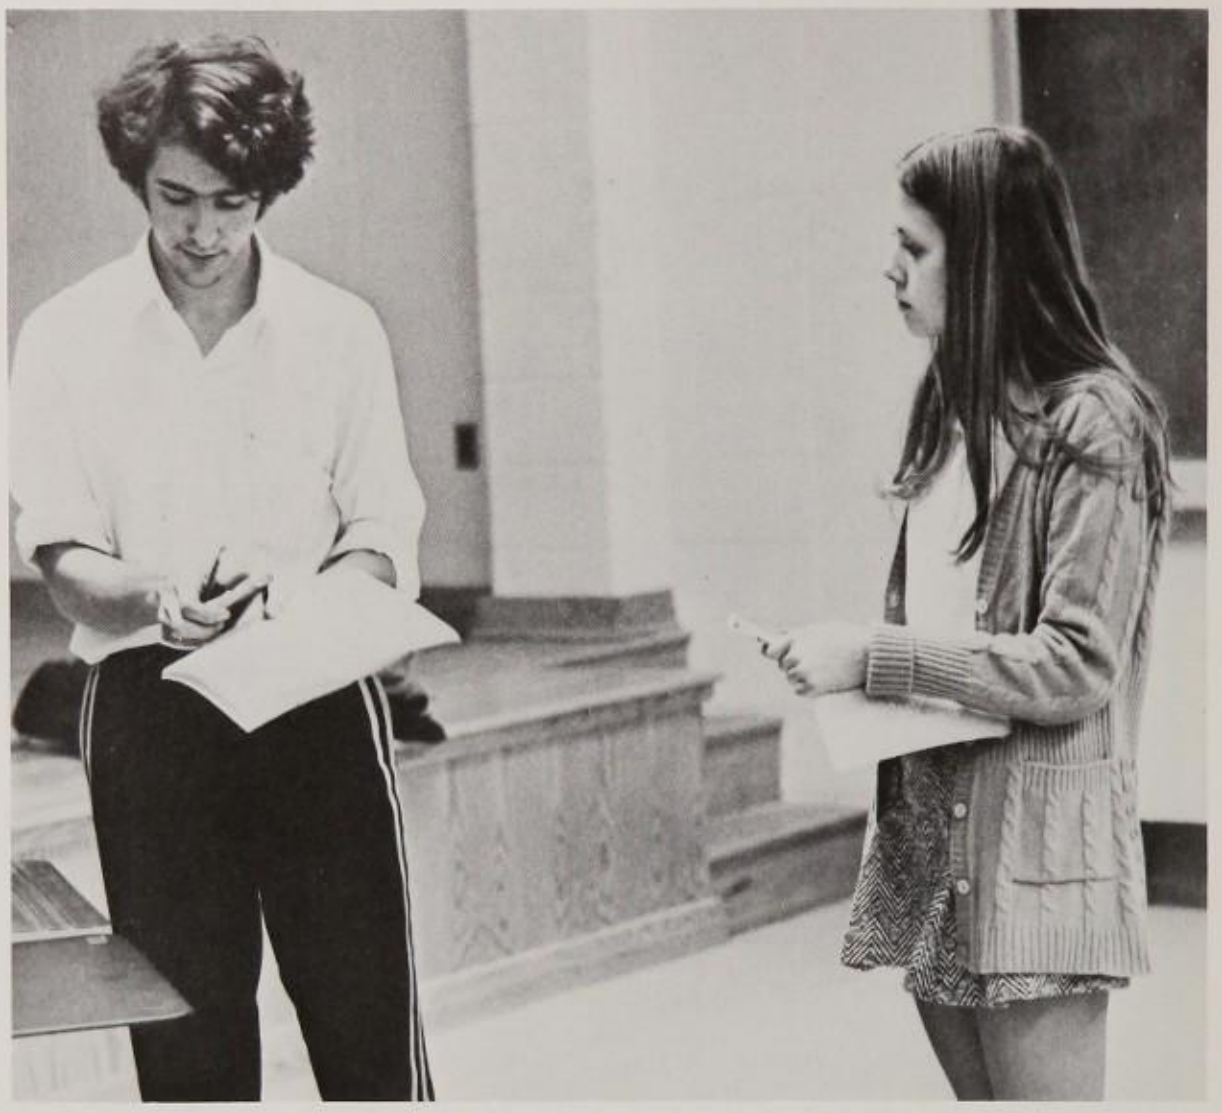
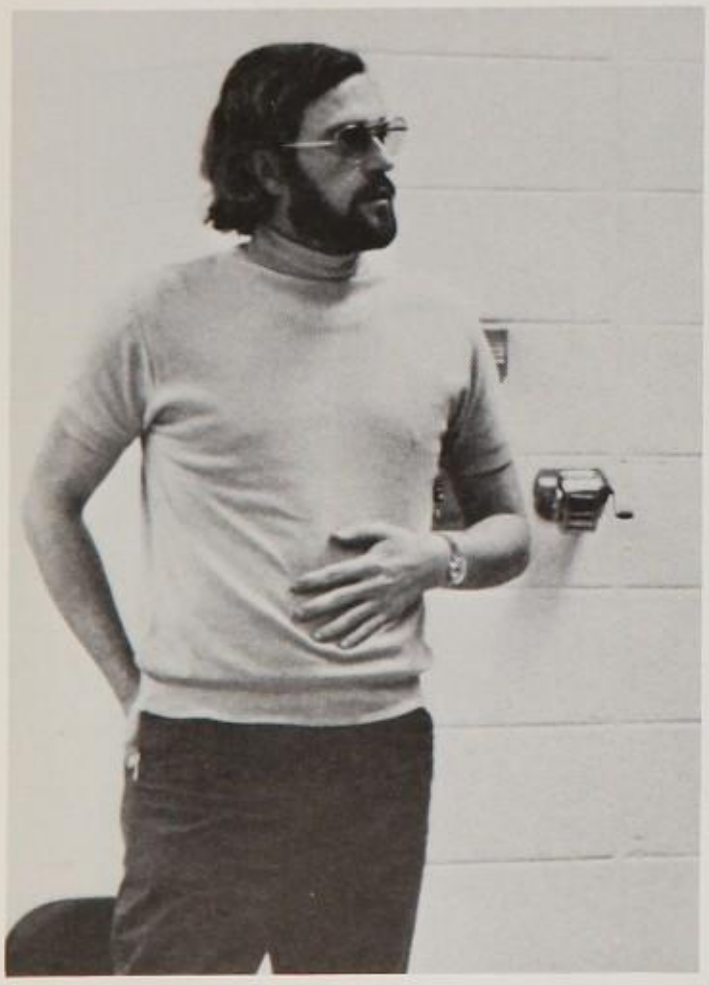
A Blithe Spirit materializes



"She's here! Larry Bakalian show surprise and horror at his dead wife's return.



"C'mon Larry, you have it. Beth Misialek pauses during rehearsal.



"I'm shocked!" Mr. Mingus displays amazement at the actor's performances.

Noel Coward's comedy Blithe Spirit was chosen as the Spring Play by director John Mingus. Innovative teachers and cast members worked hard on this distinctive production, presenting U.D.'s first "theater in the round." The plot centered around the materialization of a mischievious and blithe spirit named Elvira, the first wife of Mr. Charles Condimine. Her antics, though not appreciated by the second Mrs. Condomine, produced many laughs in the audience. Cast members included Larry Bakalian, Debbie McCoy, Beth Misialek, Phil Yates, Dawn Calabrese, Cindy Brodsky, and Laura Paskman.

"You can't deny I'M here." Debbie McCoy as Elvira speaks to her living husband during a seance.

Finian's Rainbow

While William Brobst gestures to Tom Fagely, various members of the cast position themselves behind.

Bursting into song, Sharon McGlonergan played by Pat Carlis stands with Tom Fagely as Woody Mahoney.

Waiting for her cue, Anne Travis sits, patiently enjoying an enacted scene.

"Don't go!" Pat Carlis holds onto Finian, played by William Brobst.

The second annual faculty play was held this year and featured the talents of many of the school's staff. Again a musical was chosen and Finian's Rainbow met with the same success of last year's Guys and Dolls. Finian, played William Brobst encounters leprecahauns searching for "the pot of gold."

Royal Diamondmen

With a grin of delight, Richard Tharp watches another perfect throw.

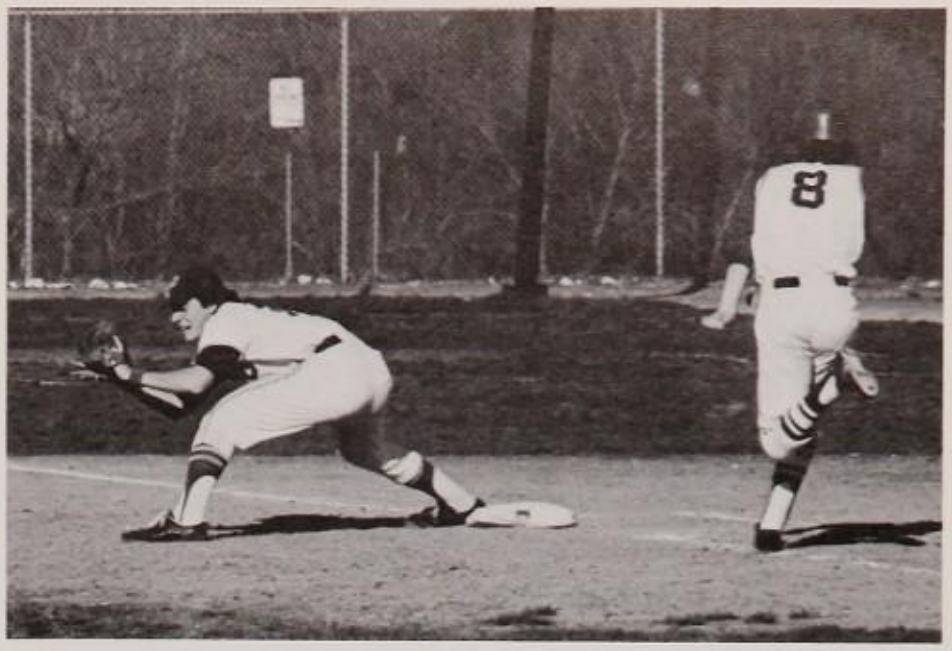
lynch Pioneers

Working hard for a strike, Guy Lynch fires a fastball.



Reaching out, Duryel Thomas attempts to catch the ball before the Pioneer arrives at first base.

The baseball team started a rainy season with victories over Lower Merion and Conestoga. According to Coach Soscia, the team will rely heavily on good pitching and a strong defense for continued success. Springfield and Radnor will provide the Royals with tough competition. Guy Lynch, Terry Ayjian, Scott Brady, and Joe Tracy are the only returning lettermen. Other promising players are John Stein, John Vogel, Stu Shepherd, and Duryel Thomas.

In spite of opening losses to Lower Merion and Conestoga, the JV sluggers have a promising season ahead. Coached by Mr. Donald Forney, the JV Royals will be meeting strong opposition from Springfield and Marple Newtown. Strong performances are expected by David Anthony, Steve Puccino, Richard Tharp, Joe Battista, Dave Shellingberger, Joe Huver, and Charles Fisk.

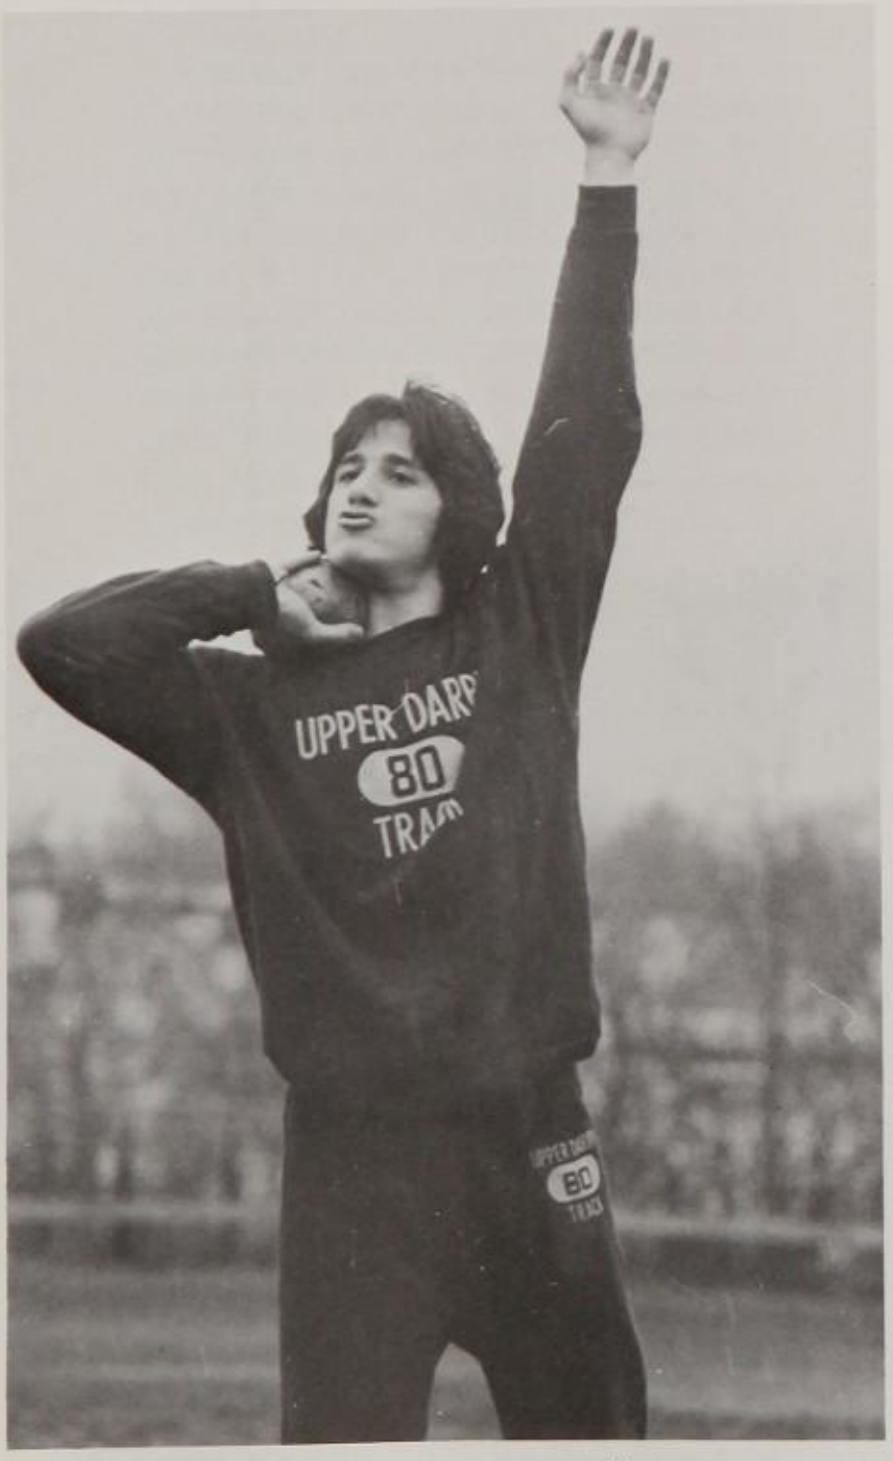
record twice

The Royal track team entered the 1974 season led by Captain Bill deGrouchy, Coach Swartz, and Assistant Coaches Mr. Fisher and Mr. Bach. The Cindermen were sparked by the performance of Bill deGrouchy in the Mile Run, Paul Regan, Craig Church, Charles Shannon, Charles Crampton, and Joe O'Brien in the sprints, middle distances, and hurdle races, and Mark Porreca in the jumping events. Pat O'Brien has already broken the school record twice in the 330 Intermediate Hurdles.

According to Coach Swartz, the team is young and talented and will gain in confidence and performance as the season progresses.

Taking the lead in the two mile relay, Dan Byrne receives the baton from teammate Drew Nicholas.

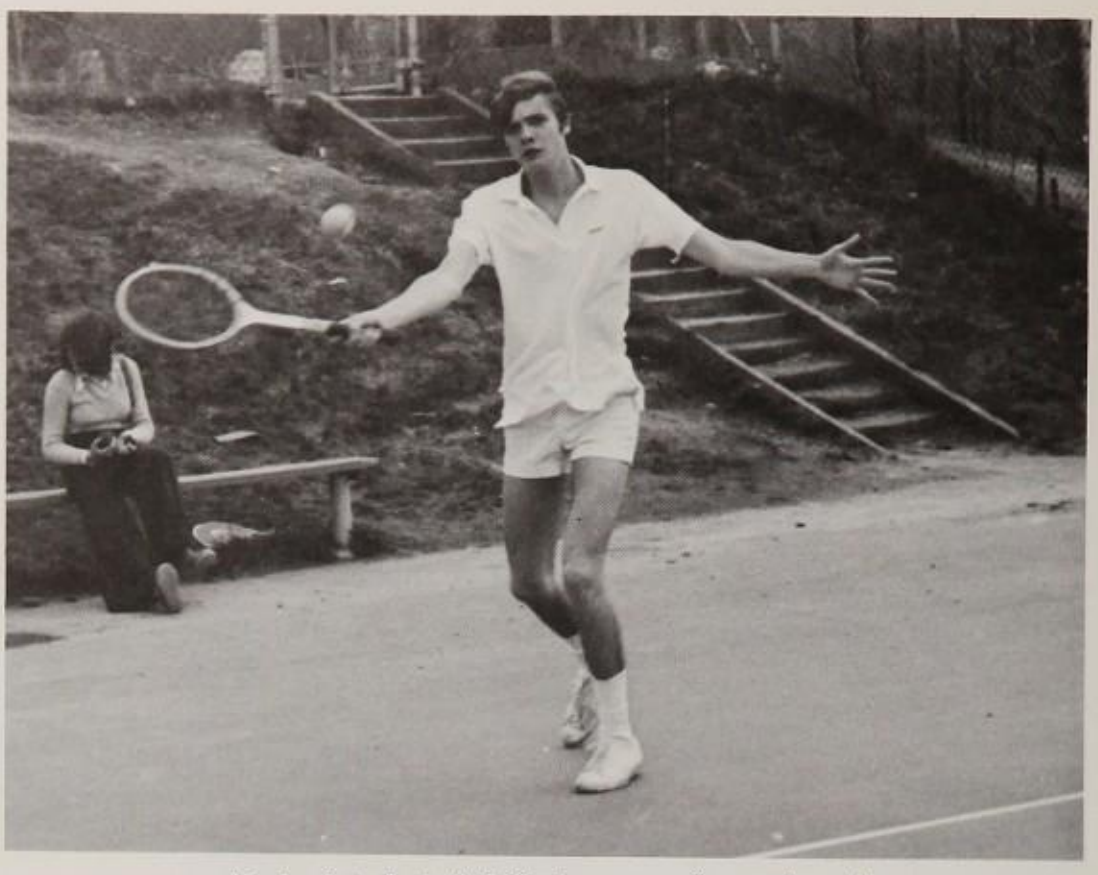


Concentrating on achieving a great distance, Lou Pellicori prepares to put the shot.

Utilizing every ounce of strength, Pat deGrouchy attempts to break the triple jump record.

Racqueteers improve

Using his backhand, Glen Davis returns the ball.



Moving into the ball, Mike Lenz goes for another win.

Ready to move, Bruce Korn watches the movements of his opponent.

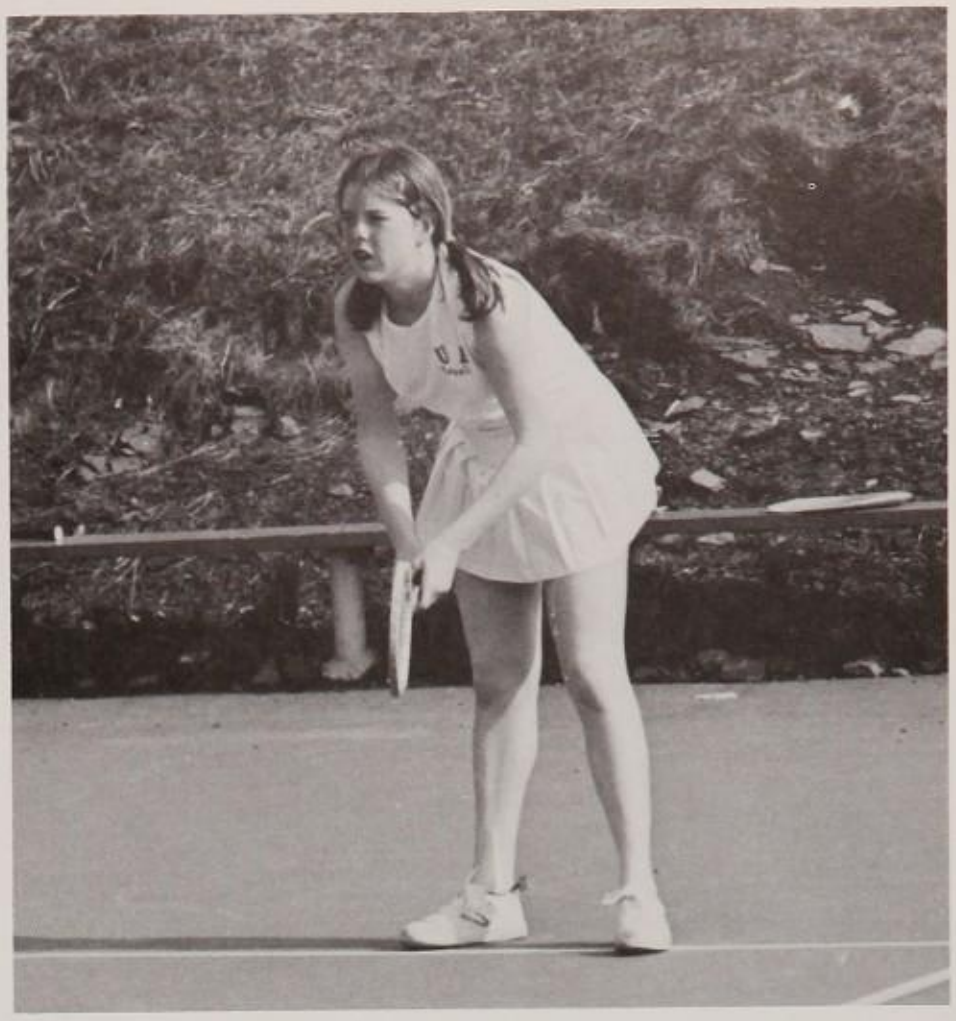
team records

Displaying good form, Nancy Rodgers serves the ball.

A greatly improved Boys' Tennis Team started the 1974 season with promising scrimmages and practices. The relatively young team, coached by Mr. Wiest, is conditioning itself for next year when the players will be competing in four singles matches and three doubles matches as opposed to this years four singles and one doubles matches. Top players this year include Mike Lenz, Captain Peter Allen, John Hufnagel, Bruce Korn, Bill Owen, Dave O'Neill, and Glenn Davis.



Junior Anita Richardson awaits the serve from her opponent.

Winning a scrimmage against Lansdowne — Aldan and a league match against Haverford, the Girls' Tennis Team has great prospects for the 1974 Season. Practicing hard during the summer, the girls, coached by Mrs. Pusey, are ready to improve last year's record of four wins and five losses. Captain Shirlee Hurst, Anita Richardson, Jill Burns, Franni Trexler, Grace Burton, Elaine Salmon, and Nancy Rodgers are the top players this year.

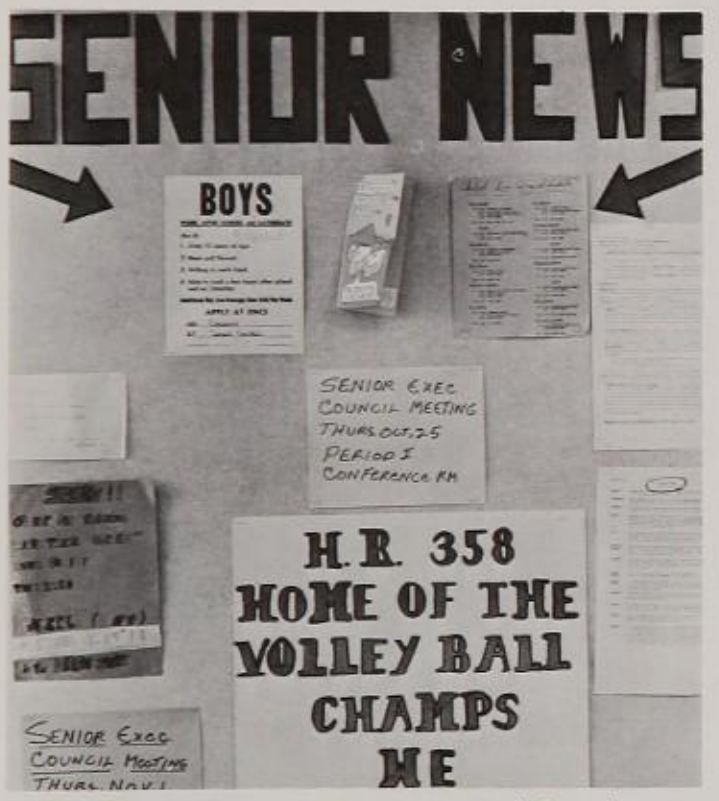
Senior house

The Senior Executive Committee made the 1973-74 school year a memorable and profitable one for all. Led by Dean Michael DeNoia and officers Bill Padula, Chairman; Rosemarie Hutnick, Vice Chairman; Pat Gentile, Secretary; and Keith Powell and John Mammele, Co-Treasurers, the Committee sponsored a variety of highly successful student activities. Among them were the Christmas Dance and Senior Prom, both of which attracted many students. The U.D. Button Campaign, initiated by the Committee, aroused much school spirit. The Committee was also responsible for coordinating frequent Friday Night concerts, the most popular of which was the Fifties Revival Dance featuring Bob-Shoo-Bop. For the first time in U.D. history, the Executive Committee sponsored Voter Registration Day held for students. Guidance Counselors Richard Kromer and Elesa Nelson were available to students for any reason and at any time. Undoubtedly, the most successful of all the Senior-sponsored events was the M.S. Marathon which made a profit of over $8,000 and gave our school the distinction of being named High School of the Year.

Senior Dean and Guidance

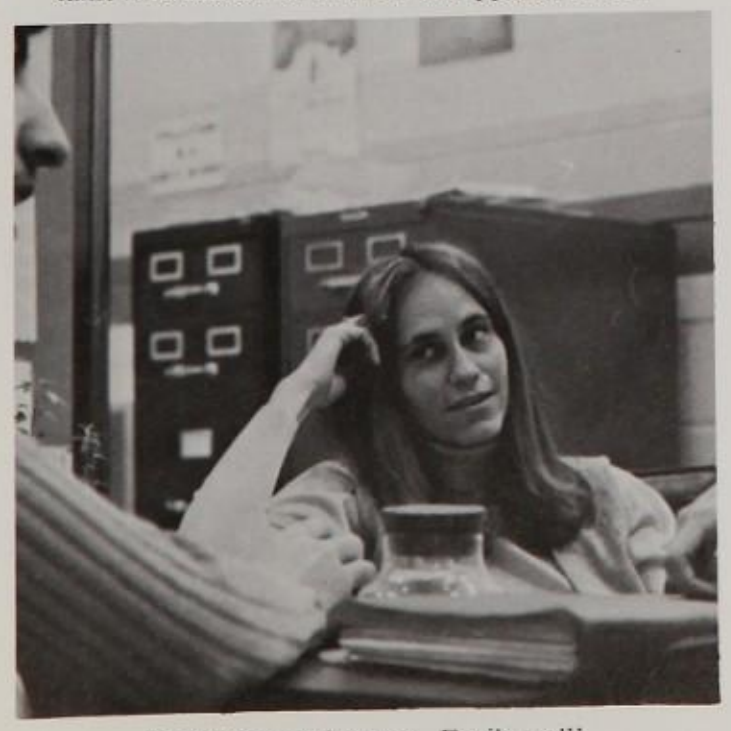
"I told you never to call me at the office."

Smiles and cheerful words accompany Elesa Nelson's advice.



Found in the Senior Center, this bulletin board contains information of interest to Upperclassmen.

"You're not getting older you're getting better!" Mr. DeNoia is all smiles after his surprise birthday party.



"Tell me another one, Epsilanty!"

Always willing to help, Richard Kromer goes over course selection with a student.

Senior Executive Council

Action News in the person of Larry Kane makes a stop at the marathon.

What do you want for Christmas, Santa asks a tiny tot.

Santa's little elf does a bit of moonlighting on the side.

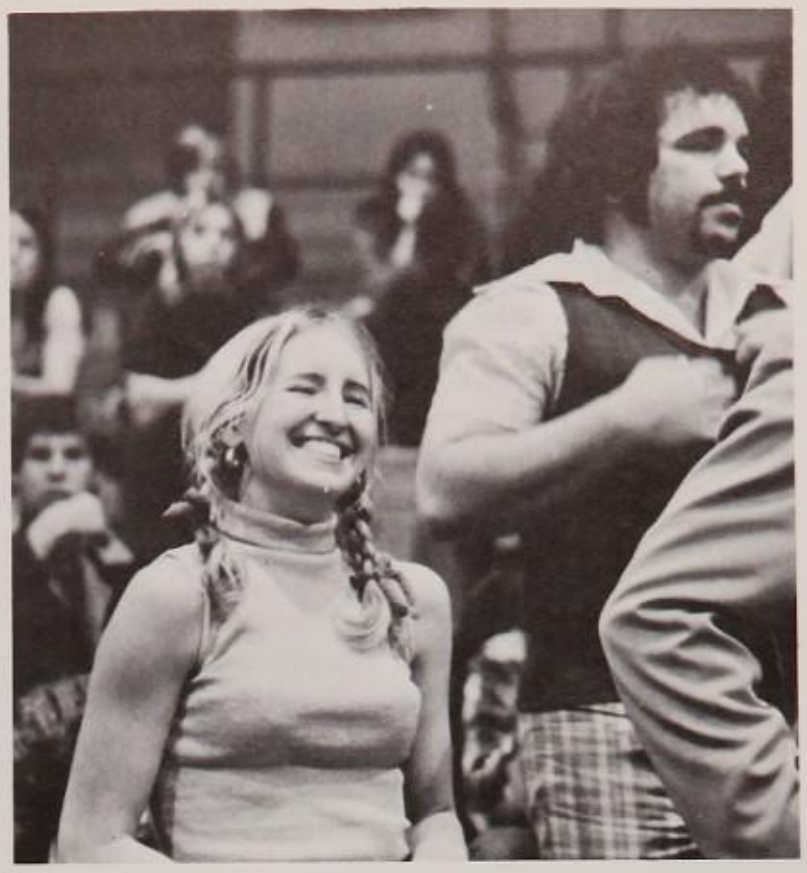
The Senior Executive Council headed the largest project this school has ever seen. Involving hundreds of people and thousands of dollars, the fund raising activities covered 24 continuous hours. Co-chaired by Bill Padula and Lisa Yackel, this successful venture raised almost $9,000 and after expenses were paid out, $8,000 was donated to Multiple Sclerosis.

There were six major areas of fund raising, including basketball, dancing, volleyball, swimming, track and pictures with Santa.

The 24 hour dance marathon netted much money for M.S. but also $100 for winner Terry Caracilio who was judged to have danced the longest.

raises $8000 for M.S.

Just keep moving, Roe Hutnick and Jay Meyers advise dancers.



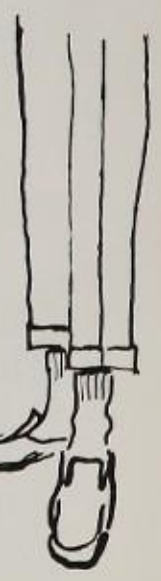
Relieved and excited at the end of her ordeal, Terry Caracilio smiles exhaustedly.

Meanwhile, down in the cafeteria, crowds are entertained by Cracked Barley.

With points and money mounting, Gary Gottshalk continues to play.

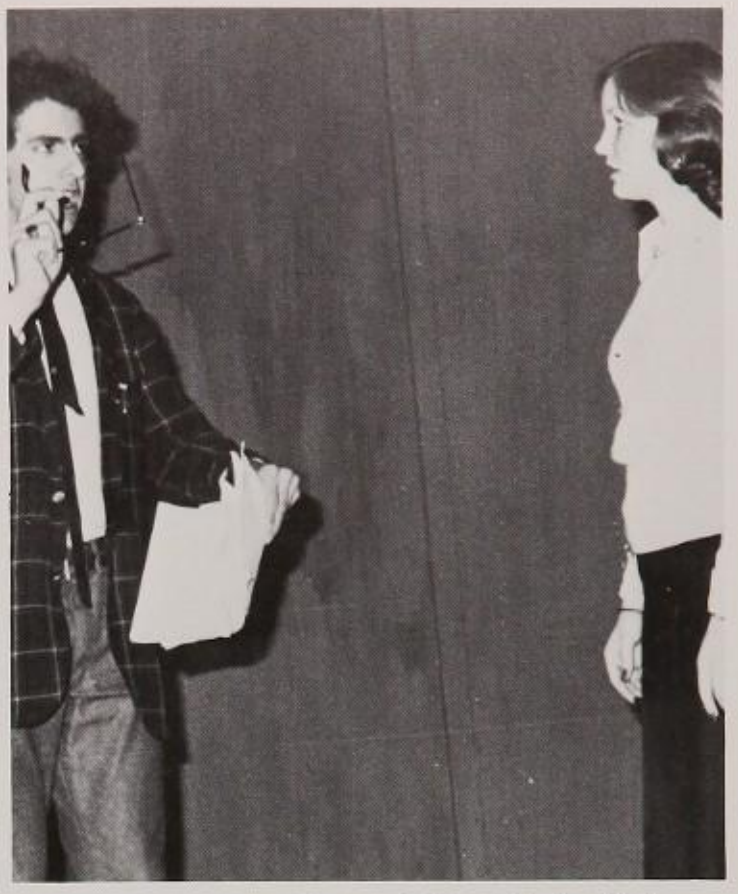
Waiting for the serve, Mr. Ciminera prepares himself for a spike.

50's ROCK REVIVAL



Senior Executive Committee

"Could I please have it quiet down that end?' . . . Chairman Bill Padula once again presides over a weekly meeting.



"What about the AB control?'' . . . Brainy Professor, Larry Bakalian contemplates this question directed to him by his puzzled secretary, Nancy Bubba.

These pictures tell only part of the story of the class of '74. All events are initiated at weekly executive meetings guided by Bill Padula. The Senior Play-Cupid is a bum, is a bum, is a bum . . ., which won first place in the new intra-house play competition and the 50's Rock Revival featuring Bob-Shoo-Bop, which was a super success in reducing the cost for this year's prom tickets, are two of the most unforgettable moments to Seniors. All this and much more seemed to unite 967 individuals into the real feeling of a Senior House.

Always in good working condiiton, the typewriter's carriage, Ellen Wartell, is keeping pace with Nancy Bubba's typing.

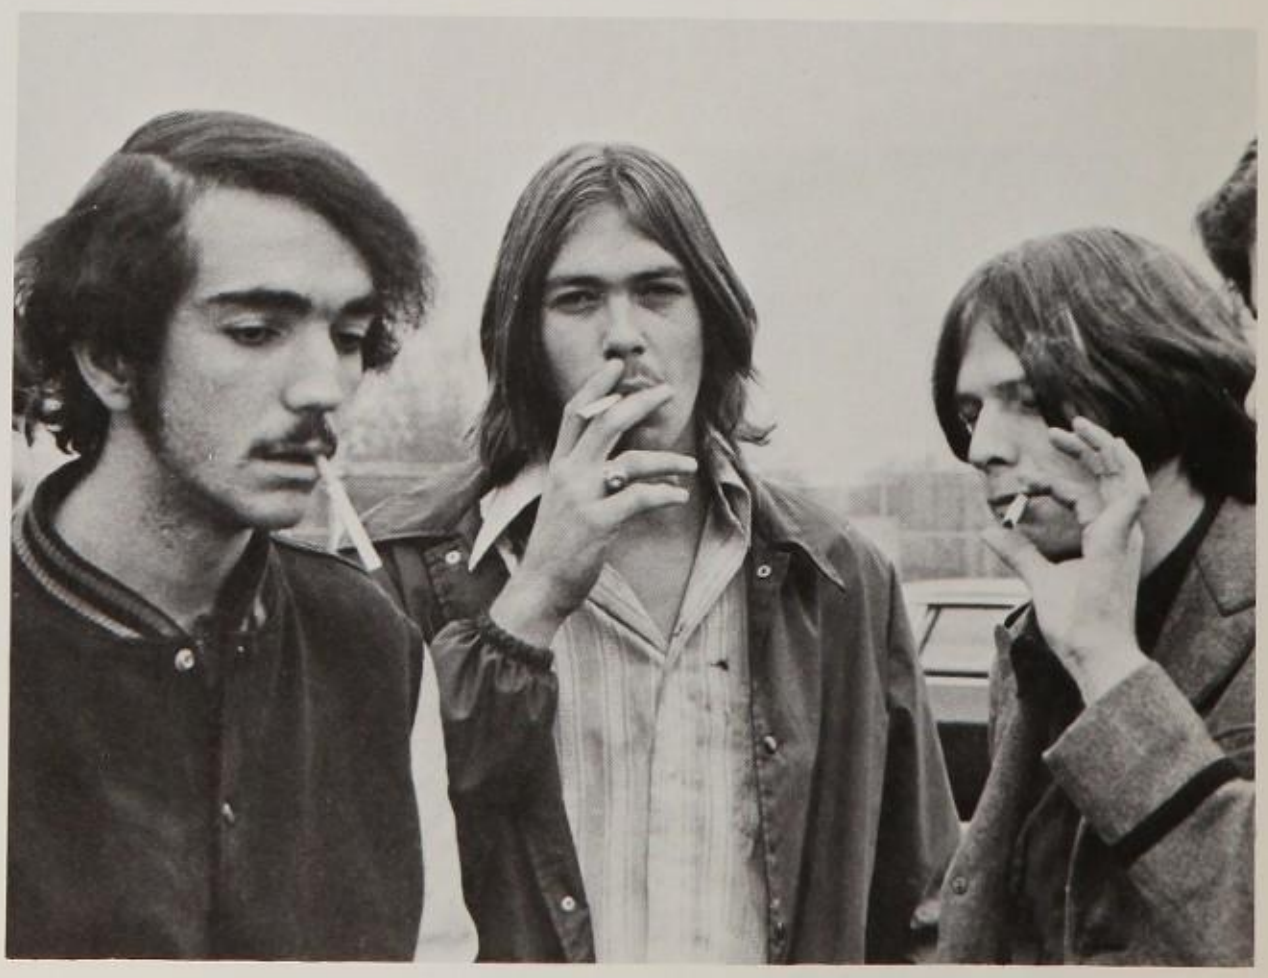
Even though the long tall Texan, Vince Marvelli tries to convince Barbara DiMario that "bustin up with your boyfriend ain't all that bad". She somehow fails to agree.

Today's Happenings

Caught unaware by the camera, Marilyn Santangelo expresses surprise.

Engulfed by the crowd, Patti Brennan searches for a familiar face.

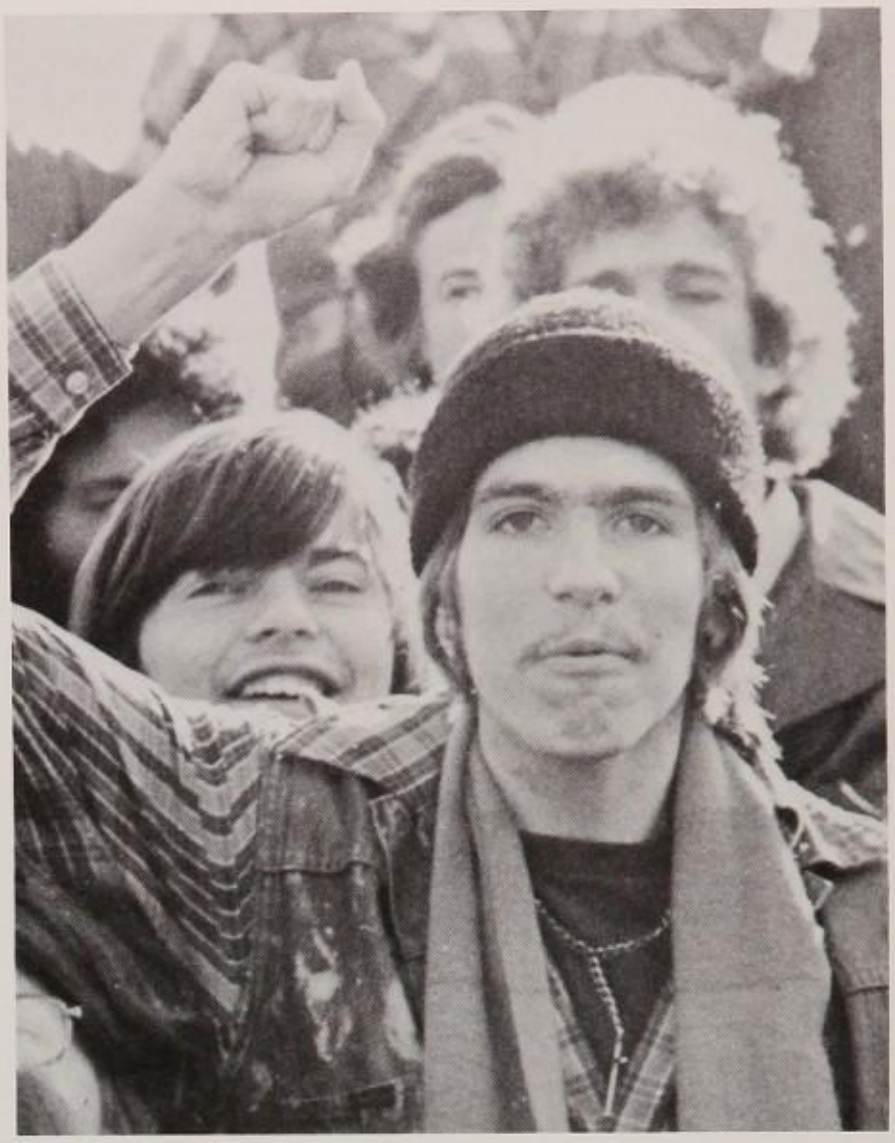
Alone with her thoughts, Barb DiMario seems oblivious to the cold.



Taking time out for a cigarette Frank Watson, Tom Caldwell and Bob Lizzard brood over the day's events.

Tomorrow's Memories

Striving for perfection, Sue Ward and Donna Davis diligently complete their art work.



U. D. Power . . . David Beitzel encourages the crowd despite the score.

Sitting on Santa's lap, Denise Talvacchio watches the activities at the M.S. Martahon.

Staring off into space, Bill O'Doherty anticipates the end of a boring study ha

What's a puzzle —
a question mark thrown and shattered against the wall by an exasperated pursuer of revelation —

"Only in his total being . . . .
in mind, body and sprit . . . .
can man find his final strength"

-with sprawling corridors and stretching staircases of time to live to know that day-

-when all the sands of knowledge
have sifted through man's fingers into the separating veins
of our puzzle.
melting the gaps-
running the questions of man and his world together into one, happy blur
of understanding,
unity and peace.
